Planting

Good preparation is the key to success here. The area in which roses are to be planted should be free from weeds and deeply dug with the addition of plenty of well-rotted manure and bonemeal. Soil that has previously grown roses should be removed to a depth of 18 inches and replaced with fresh soil from somewhere else. This should be completed in advance of planting to allow the soil to settle. Container roses can be planted at any time but avoid planting if it's extremely wet and frosty. Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the spread of the roots, and break up the soil at the bottom of the hole to allow the roots to go deeper into the soil. Mix a small spadeful of well-rotted manure in the bottom of the hole to provide nutrients for the soil. Apply mycorrhizal fungi to the bottom and the sides of the hole as this will aid root development.

Before removing the rose from its pot, water it generously. Remember to remove the pot and try not to disturb the root ball too much. Place a few handfuls of planting mixture over the roots. Replace the rest of the soil and firm down well, if dry conditions prevail then water well. No pruning is required in the first year after planting.

Maintenance

Roses, like other plants, have basic requirements for survival, namely adequate light, heat, water and nutrition. Insufficient of any of these will put the plants under stress and this is when disease and poor growth result. Try to plant in open sunny positions; some roses will tolerate partial shade but most do better when not in shade. It is very important the roses get sufficiently watered in the first few years and a good drenching during very hot spells is often required. Mulching with well-rotted manure or garden compost in early spring and the application of fertilizer in March and June should satisfy the plants nutritional requirements. Should pests such as aphids or leaf rolling sawfly be active then spraying with an insecticide might be necessary. Diseases such as mildew, blackspot and rust are best prevented by good husbandry. Spraying with a fungicide is also recommended and it is best to alternate two different sprays at fortnightly intervals.

Pruning

Always prune old fashioned roses in late February or early March after planting. Thereafter only prune after flowering to tidy the bush by removing dead or unhealthy wood, or to reduce size. Never prune in hard weather.

Always take out any dead, diseased or crossing wood first and then follow the pruning guide below.

Remove spent blooms throughout the season to encourage new growth.

Damasks

Prune summer flowering varieties once established by a removal of one or two very old stems after flowering. Recurrent varieties have their stems shortened by one third in Feb/March.

Chinensis

Tend to make small twiggy shrubs if left unpruned. Prune each spring to encourage basal growth.

Bourbons, Hybrid Musks and Hybrid Perpetuals

Prune by one third early in the spring to encourage new shoots and to prevent leggy plants.

Rugosa

Prune only to keep in the desired shape, either hedge or bush.

Hybrid Teas

Should be pruned hard the first year by cutting back to within 3 or 4 inches from the ground to an outward eye. Shorten the retained shoots made in the previous year by half their length, choosing a plump outward eye.

Floribunda Roses

In the first year reduce the shoots to about 5 inches from the ground, again choosing outward eyes. In future years use common sense in preserving an open plant approach. New growth from the base made the previous year should only be pruned to the first good eye below a flowering truss. Two year old wood can be reduced by half and older wood can be eliminated altogether.

Patio Miniature Roses

These roses often produce a mass of twiggy growth. After this unproductive wood has been removed, the main stems should be reduced by about one-third to a healthy bud or lateral. Remove entirely any over-vigorous shoots that spoil the shape of the bush.

Climbers and Ramblers

For the first two years train strong shoots to the wall. Later when plants are well established, lateral growth can be cut back. Ramblers and climbers growing on trees are best left untouched, whereas for ramblers on poles or walls it is necessary to remove flowering shoots after flowering and tie in the new shoots.
